Senate to Determine Students' Contribution to Building Drive

The Student Senate will determine whether the student body will participate in the Building Fund Drive, at an open meeting in Pigott Auditorium Monday at 1 p.m.

IN A LETTER to the senators this week, student body president Mark Ruljancich explained that the meeting will be in the Auditorium to enable as many students as possible to attend and voice opinions on the subject.

If the Senate votes that the students should contribute to the drive, they will "be empowered to assess the student body for this purpose," said the ASSU president. "Such an assessment would be for a period of five years and collected at registration along with the other fees. This program would then eliminate Student Development. . . ."

RULJANCICH emphasized the fact that while a representative of the drive committee will present the case for the students contributing to the drive, the final decision will be the Senate's.

The drive is for the construction of a $2,150,000 science building on campus. A city-wide drive has been organized to solicit funds from corporations, foundations, organizations and individual friends of the University.

Ruljancich stated in his letter that "a contribution by the students will serve a two-fold purpose, namely the fulfillment of our obligation to the University and as an inducement for the community to contribute."

Trade Bazaar Canceled

The second International Trade Bazaar, scheduled for this weekend, has been canceled. According to Phil Dupont, of the sponsoring S.U. ## Blood Drive Opens Monday; A Phi O Sets 300-Pint Goal

Three hundred pints of blood is the goal in this year's Alpha Phi Omega blood drive. The drive will be Monday and Tuesday, from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m., in the gym.

THE DONATIONS of S.U. students will build up a reserve in the King County Blood Bank in the name of Seattle University. This reserve will be administered by the president's office and will enable students who need blood to obtain it from the bank.

The King County Mobile Blood Unit, under the direction of Dr. T. D. Patel, is coordinating with A Phi O in handling the donations.

DR. PATEL pointed out that persons who have given blood in the past thirty days are not eligible to donate again, but all prospective donors will be given tests prior to the donation.

A Phi O co-chairmen Bob Kaczor, Paul Maffeo and Mike Doyle said coffee and doughnuts will be served in the gym. They added that it was hoped that last year's total of 265 pints would be surpassed by at least 35 pints.

EDITORIAL:

Monday's Decision

The decisions to be made at next Monday's Student Senate meeting are of vital concern to every student.

A representative of the Building Fund Drive will explain the drive and ask the students to participate. The Senate will decide if the students are to contribute and, if so, to what extent.

The meeting will be in Pigott Auditorium at 1 p.m. Students attending will be recognized to speak from the floor. The senators, as the student body's elected representatives, will be making one of their most important decisions this year.

Rarely does student government legislation affect all the students. This decision will. It is for this reason that the students should attend, listen to the discussion, and voice their opinions.

Graduate School Provides Studies for 'Real Students'

By PAUL DOYLE

Some people haven't had enough school by the time they graduate from Seattle U. Dumb? Not on your life! These students are in S.U.'s Graduate School pursuing advanced course work in their chosen field.

The Graduate School confers a master's degree. The courses are far more difficult and complex than undergraduate ones. Emphasis is on independent study and research. Students who aim at getting by don't last long.

GRADUATE studies began at Seattle College in the field of arts and sciences in 1901. In 1935, a graduate course leading to the master's degree was established for the School of Education. An Evening Division program in mechanical and electrical engineering was added last fall.

The Graduate School operates on a limited basis. In the College of Arts and Sciences, graduate courses are available only in biology, history and English. Courses in these fields are offered only in the summer.

THE REV. John A. Gurr, S.J., dean of the school, made it clear that the Graduate School is only an adjunct of S.U.'s basic aims. "Our basic commitment at Seattle University is to education at the undergraduate level. No facilities nor any faculty, therefore, can be diverted to a graduate program to the detriment of the undergraduate program. However, the Graduate School does exist to meet the need of those students who desire more advanced study in their particular field."

Requirements are stiff. To enter, a student must have an undergraduate major in the field he wishes to pursue and he must have shown evidence that he is able to do the work. An engineering applicant must have had at least a "B" average in his last 90 hours.

THERE ARE two types of students in Graduate School. Classified students are those actually seeking a master's degree. Unclassified students are those pursuing graduate studies at random. For them at least a "C" in all courses is mandatory. Classified students, however, must maintain a "B" average or withdraw.

To obtain either a Master of Arts or Master of Science degree, the student must complete a program of 45 credit hours worked out by his department and approved by the dean. A thesis is usually required and 10 credits are given for it.

IN ADDITION every candidate for a degree must take a comprehensive examination, written and/or oral, embracing the student's whole area of study. This test is taken partially from a reading list essential for each field. This list of required reading may run to 30 volumes.

When the student finishes this work there is more yet—all master's degrees except engineering call for the reading knowledge of a modern foreign language, usually French or German.

On file in the library are master's theses ranging from one on Father-Daughter Factors in Female Deviate Behavior to another on The Myelin Breakdown of Peripheral Nerves. Several run to over 300 pages.

The program for graduate study adds up to a lot of hard work. But if you're not yet ready to change your cap and gown for an Ivy League suit or an apron, it might be for you. Check up on it. You can take six years and you might learn something.

5 A. M. GREETING:

30 New Spurs Selected

By WALLI ZIMMERMAN

Thirty bleary-eyed freshman girls were awakened at 5 a.m. Sunday to be told of their election as '59 Spur pledges.

ACCORDING to Irene Tobener, Spurs president, the following girls were chosen: Judy Bastasch, Carolyn Berg, Kathy Brindle, Pat Coughlin, Lois Dideon, Ann Donovan, Linda Duni, Barbara Egan, Jean Eilers, Freda Hattrup, Irene Herron.

Janet Kelly, Bettylu Kirstein, Kathy Kleffner, Marylou Kubick, Ann Lange, Marge Malugani, Therese Martin, Mary Ellen McGill, Sandy Morgan, Marge O'Connor, Ann Marie Petersen, Jeanne Reichman, Ginger Ruby, Valerie Schuss, Fran Shanley, Rita Schindler, Mary Van Dyke, Mary Lee Walsh, Karen Wiper.

SUNDAY morning found old Spurs busily entering the homes of all new pledges. By arrangements with the families, their "housebreaking" was legalized; doors were left unlocked or keys left under mats or flowerpots.

The girls, tripping quietly into the house, awakened their candidates, saying: "You're now a Spur; get your scarves, pedal-pushers and prayerbooks and come along!" (Quite a greeting for 5 o'clock in the morning!)

THINGS seemed to be going smoothly until two girls, Mary Sullivan and Pat Sanders, found themselves "tripping quietly" into the WRONG house. Planning to awaken Therese Martin who, according to "Who's Who," lived at 6308 - 18th N.E., they found themselves instead awakening a young nurse. The startled lady's comment might have been, "So whazza spur, anyway?" The problem—Therese Martin's correct address, was 6303 18th N.E.

After "successfully" gathering all pledges, the group attended 7 a.m. Mass at St. James Cathedral. Breakfast was served after Mass at the home of Pat Sanders.

A DRIVE to Point Defiance, in Tacoma, and a picnic day followed, during which time new Spurs elected co-chairmen for their first activity. The girls chosen were Jean Eilers and Therese Martin.

Future dates for the Spurs will include election of officers May 20, and May 25 the last meeting will be held, consisting of initiation of officers and of new Spur pledges.

LETTERS ACCUSE 'SPEC':

Not Reporting Facts 'Accurately'; Not Giving Space to 'Fragments'

Miss Zimmerman:

In the April 30 issue of the Spectator, there is an article concerning your dog Wimpleton. I don't know who wrote the article but I assume, that due to the tenses used, it wasn't you. That, however, is neither here nor there; the fact remain that that article was no credit to the practice of Journalism, and you should see to it that, in the future such inaccuracies are not allowed.

If it is the goal of the Journalist to report the 'story' accurately, then then they should do so. Accuracy includes calling animals by the proper names. A police dog is not a German Shepherd Dog and neither is it a German police dog.

By definition a police dog is ANYdog that is trained for police work. A German police dog has the distinction of coming from Germany as well as being trained for police work.

The German Shepherd Dog is a definite BREED and as such has the right to that honorable distinction.

I regret that this error is not the only error in the Spectator.

It may interest you to learn that it has become a matter of JOCULARITY on the campus that Journalism, as practiced by the staff of THE SPECTATOR, is the concentrated effort to make at least one error in every sentence.

I do not always complain; praise will be forthcoming when deserved.

(Name withheld by editors.)

EDITOR'S NOTE:

Concerning our "inaccurate" report of April 30:

Had the writer taken the time to consult Mr. Webster's NEW WORLD DICTIONARY, page 607, he would have found that a German shepherd dog is "a breed of dog somewhat like a wolf in form and size, notable for its intelligence; it was first developed by the Germans; also called (German) POLICE DOG."

Our "definition," sir, is "accurate". The SPECTATOR staff, as journalists, are interested in accuracy and never discourage criticism—WHEN that criticism is constructive!

As for our staff's "concentrated effort to make at least one error in every sentence," we can only refer to your own letter of complaint, in which we find 10 sentences which contain errors, out of a total of 12 sentences.

We, too, Mr. Writer, "DO NOT ALWAYS COMPLAIN!"

P.S. By the way, look up the meaning of "jocularity." The Spec staff is delighted that you find our paper "witty"!

Editor:

... As you are aware, Spectator has never willingly given Fragments (which is a quarterly and we fondly believe it has literary qualities) representative space. If the editorial in question [April 30] indicates a change in attitude, members of the Creative Writing Club and the Fragments staff can only express their appreciation.

We are delighted to find even so slighting mention of our existence and we feel sure that Spectator will be interested in knowing that we expect to come out again around the first of June. Spectator could have announced our deadline of May 4, but we tired of knocking our heads against the Spectator's stone wall to get our news printed.

Naturally, Fragments has not requested student funds because it isn't an ASSU group. We are presently working on a constitution and petition for ASSU membership which will be accompanied by a request for enough money to publish a superficially attractive quarterly as well as a literarily attractive one.

Our attitude in the past has been

THE MANY LOVES
OF THORWALD DOCKSTADER

When Thorwald Dockstader—sophomore, epicure, and sportsman—first took up smoking, he did not simply choose the first brand of cigarettes that came to hand. He did what any sophomore, epicure, and sportsman would do: he sampled several brands and then picked the mildest, tastiest, pleasingest of all—Philip Morris, of corris!

Similarly, when Thorwald took up girls, he did not simply select the first one who came along. He sampled. First he took out an English literature major named Elizabeth Barrett Grisht, a wisp of a girl with luminous eyes and a soul that shimmered with a pale, unearthly beauty. Trippingly, trippingly, she walked with Thorwald upon the beach and sat with him behind a windward dune and listened to a sea shell and sighed sweetly and took out a little gold pencil and a little morocco notebook and wrote a little poem:

*I will lie upon the shore,
I will be a dreamer.
I will feel the sea once more
Pounding on my femur.*

Thorwald's second date was with a physical education major named Peaches Glendower, a broth of a girl with a ready smile and a size 18 neck. She took Thorwald down to the cinder track where they jogged around 50 times to open the pores. Then they played four games of squash, six sets of tennis, 36 holes of golf, nine innings of one old cat, six chukkers of lacrosse, and a mile and a quarter of leap frog. Then they went ten rounds with eight-ounce gloves and then they had heaping bowls of bran and whey and exchanged a manly handshake and went home to their respective whirlpool baths.

"I think I'll stick with PHILIP MORRIS" he said

Thorwald's final date was with a golden-haired, creamy-browed, green-eyed, red-lipped, full-calved girl named Totsi Sigafos. Totsi was not majoring in anything. As she often said, "Gee whillikers, what's college for anyhow—to fill your head full of icky old facts, or to discover the shining essence that is YOU?"

Totsi started the evening with Thorwald at a luxurious restaurant where she consumed her own weight in Cornish rock hen. From there they went to a de luxe movie palace where Totsi had popcorn with butter. Then she had a bag of chocolate covered raisins—also with butter. Then they went to a costly ballroom and cha-cha'd till dawn, tipping the band every eight bars. Then they went to a Chinese restaurant where Totsi, unable to decipher the large and baffling menu, found a simple way out of her dilemma: she ordered one of everything. Then Thorwald took her to the women's dorm, boosted her in the window, and went downtown to wait for the employment office to open.

While waiting, Thorwald thought over all of his girls and came to a sensible decision. "I think," he said to himself, "that I will stick with Philip Morris. I am not rich enough for girls."

Anybody is rich enough for Philip Morris—and for Philip Morris's brother cigarette, filter-tip Marlboro, the cigarette with better "makin's". The flavor's fine, the filter filters, the price is right.

'Spectator' Special Report:

Are Conventions Worth Their Cost?

By ROSEMARY HEBNER

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This special report on the Evergreen Conference was written by Rosemary Hebner, who was sent to the meeting at the expense of THE SPECTATOR. The paper plans to send special reporters wherever a concern of the students is at stake.)

SIX STUDENTS from S.U. were part of the 85 who represented nearly 16,000 college students at the Evergreen Conference Students Association last week. The majority of the delegates were past or present student body officers from eight Washington colleges.

Our delegates were Mark Ruljancich, Sam Brown, Eddie Nystrom, Jim Nagle, Pat Pavelka and Larry Goodman.

IN VIEW of the fact that $450 out of the $3,000 allocated to the ASSU has been spent on delegates sent to various college conferences during this year, it is necessary that justification for such expenditures be made. It is questionable whether our student government benefits sufficiently to warrant such an outlay.

One S.U. delegate stated, "Undoubtedly, those of us who have attended conventions realize the numerous advantages, but in more concrete terms, student government is given the opportunity (1) to foster better public relations, (2) to obtain new and original ideas, and (3) to better one's self as a leader."

AN ANALYSIS could be made of how many of these benefits we actually gain, and if we gain any, just how valuable they are to S.U.'s student government.

It is doubtful, taking the first of these advantages, whether public relations are actually fostered. It was apparent that some members of the delegation were uninformed as to student government policy and procedures and, when queried during seminars, at times gave incorrect information.

WE THEN ASK the question if it is the student leader's responsibility to foster public relations with other colleges. This is already handled by the administration. Or, the job could be handled as well by one or two instead of the expense of additional delegates, some of whom may be defeating the purpose of public relations.

Taking the second of the so-called advantages, which concerns new and original ideas, most of the discussion was on the theoretical level, and very few practical suggestions were obtained for use on our campus.

ONE OF THE ideas which will possibly be incorporated here is the creation of a freshman leadership conference. This would be in addition to our present High School Leadership Conference, Summer Leadership Conference, Freshman Orientation, Leadership Review, etc.

The third benefit was leadership development. Is it necessary to send delegates off campus when facilities for the development of leaders are in operation on our own campus in the form of the above-mentioned conferences?

The people sent should already have the qualifications and experience as leaders. It again seems that this can be handled just as well on our own campus without incurring the traveling expenses of sending delegates to an all-college conference.

ENTER OFTEN—HAVE FUN—AND WIN! But think carefully! This puzzle is not as easy as it looks. At first the DOWN and ACROSS clues may appear simple. There may appear to be more than one "right" answer. For example, the clue might read: "Many a coed will be given her best date's P- -N." Either "I" (PIN) or "E" (PEN) would seem to fit. But only one answer is apt and logical as decided by the judging staff, and therefore correct. Read the rules carefully. ENTER AS OFTEN AS YOU WISH. Good luck!

He enlisted in the Air Force after graduation from Henry Clay High School in Lexington, Ky. Plunkett will complete his four-year enlistment in July of this year. He has been stationed at McChord Air Force Base. He is married and has a nine-month-old son.

Scoring for the meet will be on the point basis: 5 points for first place, 3 points for second place and 1 point for third place.

CATHOLIC Memorial Field will be the scene of action at 9 a.m., May 16. All those wishing to participate are asked to contact Al Rinaldi or Frank DeMartino for the men, and Valerie Fernandes for the women.

If anyone is unable to contact them, Mr. Woodward said he would receive applications in Room 561 of the Pigott Building. Deadline for entries is 4 p.m., May 14.

Mr. Woodward said anyone interested in taking out softball bats and balls should see him. The equipment is available to everyone, he said.

Chiefs Trounce WWC 6-0, 7-3

By ALLEN HOWES

The sun was out and the day was bright last Wednesday, but for the Western Washington Vikings it was dark and dreary as the Chiefs clouded the air with a barrage of singles and doubles and raised the dust with hustling field play in capturing the double bill.

DON CARLSON'S performance on the mound racked up another shutout to match the sweep over Gonzaga last week. Only one Viking got by first base.

Carlson wasn't alone in the first game, for the Chiefs, led by Burgart, Pennington and Kent Sakamoto, stole everything in sight.

In the fourth, Parmelee singled Polhamus over, building S.U. to a 4-0 lead. The bottom of the sixth saw Burgart's perfect timing—for the second time—spectacularly exhibited as he stole home, adding another run to Seattle's lead, now 5-0. Parmelee brought Polhamus across to clinch the game for Seattle.

THE SECOND game was pitched well by Bob Simmon. He put an end to some threatening situations with "pro" style pitching in the clutch and helped his own cause with a screaming 380-ft. double which scored Polhamus and Kent Sakamoto.

The Vikings threatened with their only three runs in the sixth inning, but Bob Simmons came through to quell the threat.

The Chieftains meet Gonzaga tomorrow on Broadway Playfield at 1:30 p.m. They face the Huskies Monday at the U.W. home field at 2:30 p.m.

Tennis Squad Faces Central

The toughest tennis team which S.U. had to face this year was the Portland University Pilots, who met S.U.'s tennis team yesterday at Volunteer Park.

RESULTS were undetermined by prestime.

Seattle University's tennis team record, not including yesterday, stands at six wins and one loss in collegiate competition. S.U. took on Central Washington College of Education today at 9 a.m. Central has a strong team, led by their number one man, Vernon Ball.

MR. EVERETT WOODWARD, commenting on the team, said, "The team is playing well, but we would like to see some spectators at our home matches at Volunteer Park."

On May 1 the Chieftains beat College of Puget Sound, at Evergreen Tennis Club, with the doubles team of Vick Reynolds and Jeff Comyn defeating CPS number two doubles team.

Golfers Face Huskies Today

By BOB BYRNE

The Seattle University golf team, victorious in 12 matches in as many attempts, is preparing to extend the winning streak to 13 as they tackle the U. of W. Huskies at Inglewood Country Club today. Tee-off is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

ALTHOUGH the Huskies are not considered one of the strongest clubs, they have a consistently well-balanced player in Clint Names, from Tacoma.

While Seattle U., on the other hand, has some of the finest golfers on the Coast. Ed Pearsall has been medalist in five matches, while Bill Warner has grabbed it once and John Lynch and Bryon Copp shared top honors once.

THE FRESHMAN DIVOTERS, under the direction of Hal Jacobson, have three golfers who qualified for the varsity but because of their status were not eligible for the squad. They are Bob Johnson, De Ross Kincaid, and Gary Galbreath. Other freshmen making up the squad are Allen Smith, Pete Carlouse and Dennis Johnson.

THE VARSITY has eight matches left this season. They are: Sand Point Naval Air Station, two with the U. of W. Huskies, one with Portland U., Portland State and McChord Air Force Base. They will finish the final road trip with the formidable Oregon State Beavers, in Corvallis. The last match of the season, mainly a grudge match, will be between the frosh and varsity clubs.

Senior Class Granted Mixer; Senate Pledges Support to CN

At the Student Senate meeting held Tuesday, the Senior Class received the consent of the Student Senate to hold a mixer after the operetta, "The Desert Song," May 15. The Seniors requested the date to help defray costs of the Senior Breakfast.

THE REV. Robert J. Rebhahn, S.J., dean of students, told the Senate of recent action taken by the conduct-welfare board. Two students had removed the direction signs in front of the Engineering Building. For this they were ordered to pay for the signs and they were put on disciplinary and social probation.

CNCCS VOTING delegate Mary Grace LaBuda gave a report on the CNCCS convention. Irene Tobener was recognized and she read a letter from the senior voting delegate of Carroll College clearing Seattle U. of any charges of misconduct that had been reported in the last Senate meeting.

The motion was made and carried that the Senate adopt plans for active participation in the CNCCS.

FATHER Rebhahn reported that the movie scheduled for last Sunday had been canceled on Thursday, but no notice of the fact had been made. As a result many people came Sunday. Senator Gregg Lowe moved that the student counsel investigate the matter. The motion passed.

Senator Denny Johnson moved that the by-law committee prepare and submit a by-law concerning the Senate approval of presidential appointments.
